

"The making of books there is no end;" and the valuable addition of books to the Alamosa library seems to have no end. Following on the last gift of $50 in cash from Hon. Alva Adams, comes four hundred well bound volumes, embracing fiction, history and biography, donated by the principal business firms in Colorado, such as the D. & R. G., Continental Oil company, Colorado Fuel & Iron company, &c. Alamosa people should awake; outsiders seem to be more interested than our own folks. Take a trip to the library and see what the promoters of this enterprise have in store for you. Help this enterprise by your presence. Give it moral and financial support and before many years a fine library of many thousands volumes, with a handsome building, will reward your efforts.
